

Companion Website

This website contains additional resources which are intended to be of use to students and lecturers. The resources are organised under the chapter headings used in Developing Language and Literacy 3–8 (3rd edition).

There are three categories of resources:

Activities

Here I have included activities which can be used in lectures, seminars and workshops. I have also included activities which students can undertake in their study time or in school.

Websites

Here there are direct links to sites that are of particular relevance to the topics in each chapter.

Links to on-line reading

This section contains links to articles and reports that are available on the internet. The readings are intended to develop students' thinking about teaching English. They could be used as background reading for assignments or presentations.

The internet websites and web links to which I refer were consulted during the period February to June 2008. Addresses and details were correct at the dates of consultation but may have been subject to subsequent change.
